POSITION: Re-Engagement Specialist

REPORTS TO: Re-Engagement Center Manager

JOB DESCRIPTION: The Re-Engagement Specialist will work as part of a team dedicated to contacting recent high school dropouts and students who are chronically absent, with a goal of re-engaging them in the Boston Public Schools (BPS). The team works at the BPS Re-Engagement Center to ensure appropriate placement for returning and chronically absent students, often matching them with alternative education schools. The team maintains contact with these students at their new schools. If re-engagement in the BPS is not a viable option, the team strives to connect young people with other public or non-profit support systems, such as high school equivalency (HSE) programs and Boston’s Career Centers.

This work evolved as an action-oriented research project and is part of Boston’s larger dropout prevention and re-engagement effort. The team develops quantitative and qualitative reports on the BPS dropout re-engagement initiative to refine its practice and to inform dropout prevention efforts. These reports are presented to the Youth Transitions Task Force and the PIC Board of Directors, as well as BPS administrators, and other concerned audiences, both local and national.
